Zoom Vacations Travel Survey

The Survey Results on Traveling Post-Covid-19 are in!

Thank you to the 297 people who completed our travel survey. It was so nice to hear from you, and your feedback helped us immensely as we move forward with providing award-winning travel post Covid-19.

Here is a snapshot of some of the results.

74% of respondents are somewhat or very likely to take a small group tour within the next two years. 20% were neutral, and only 6% were unlikely.

61% of respondents are more interested in traveling internationally, compared to 5% domestic, and 35% either.

53% of respondents are interested in a Zoom Vacations small villa experience in Tuscany.

93% of respondents said that a destination's handling of the Coronavirus is somewhat or very important in determining one's desire for travel.

10 Reasons to Join Zoom Egypt in 2021

1. When Egypt opens up for regular travel there will be less crowds which equals more exclusivity.

2. Experience the most luxurious private yacht on the scenic Nile river for only 9 Zoom guests with personal chef, 24/7 masseur, and other professional staff, experienced in the art of discrete service, social distancing, and the highest level of hygiene.

3. Guaranteed share accommodations on your fare, based on availability, means exceptional value for single travelers
4. Ancient Pharaonic temples on the Nile river and the many pyramids in Cairo are open air museums with lots of fresh air.

Why LGBTQ+ Will be the First to Travel Post COVID-19

People thought that Joel Cabrera and I were crazy for starting our luxury gay vacation company, Zoom Vacations, immediately after 911.

"No one is traveling," they said. "It will be years." Months later we offered our first tour to Rio de Janeiro with almost 70 guests.

Then, the recession hit hard, and the travel industry reeled. Several mainstream (straight) tour companies and travel agencies that we knew of went under. However, we just kept focusing on providing great tours, and we honestly had one of our best years ever.
